Conclusion

Today, I learned how to use Generative AI tools like ChatGPT to create effective prompts for website development. I explored how to build an AI Personal Study Assistant website using Emergent AI and understood how AI can support personalized learning through study materials, practice questions, quizzes, and progress tracking. I also learned the importance of writing clear prompts to get better results from AI tools. Overall, this activity improved my understanding of Generative AI and its practical applications in education and helped me develop ideas for creating useful AI-powered learning solutions.